What is the Desired Outcome or Condition?

A proactive and  realistic approach to recruitment results in a larger pool of diverse, qualified applicants with a realistic understanding of job requirements. A valid and efficient screening and selection process minimizes the introduction of bias, reduces the time that positions are vacant, improves the candidate–job match, minimizes early turnover, and increases employee retention.

How well is your agency doing in this area?

The following are indicators of an agency's level of performance in this area. For each indicator below, consider and discuss the extent to which you think your agency's policies and structures promote your agency's overall performance, based on a scale of 1 = Poor, 2 = Fair, 3=Good.

Indicators of Agency Level of Performance	Rating 1 = Poor 2 = Fair 3 = Good
The agency, in partnership with the community, employs a comprehensive recruitment plan and a variety of recruitment strategies to identify and reach a broad and diverse pool of candidates.
A variety of informational materials such as videos, recruitment portals, or print material and advertising, are available to communicate the vision and mission of the agency and realistically portray job requirements.
Agency staff know employment laws and policies and practice fair screening and selection processes within the agency's hiring system.
Valid and reliable job-related criteria and processes are used in the screening and selection process to ensure fair and equitable practices.
Notes/Comments:

What strategies should your agency consider to strengthen this component?

The following examples include promising or effective strategies designed to address workforce gaps impacting an agency.

For each strategy:

- First, consider and note in the table below: A = Agency Already Engaged, B = Interested in the Strategy, C = Not Applicable (NA) or Not Interested At This Time (NI).
- Next, consider how difficult it would be for you and your team to work within the agency or with partners to implement or strengthen its performance based on 1 = Readily Doable, 2 = Feasible But Will Take Some Effort, and 3 = Difficult.

Examples of Promising or Effective Strategies	Implementation A = already engaged B = interested C = NA or NI	Level of Difficulty 1 = readily doable 2 = feasible with effort 3 = difficult
RECRUITMENT
Analyze key metrics, such as the  cost of leaving or time taken to fill vacancies and use data to advocate for effective practices.
Begin early  recruitment efforts through job and career fairs at the middle- and high- school levels, community colleges, and universities and maintain connection with interested students over time.
Provide fiscal incentives and/or other benefits (e.g., housing allowance, salary bonus,  flexible scheduling) to attract specialized staff (e.g., language proficiency) or to work in hard to place locations.
Offer bonuses to staff who successfully recruit and retain high performing staff.
Conduct targeted recruitment efforts through print and social media to successfully reach underrepresented (historically black and Hispanic universities, tribal colleges, and community colleges) and  non-traditional audiences (retirees from child welfare and related fields) to  expand the pool of diverse candidates.

SCREENING & SELECTION
Work with HR to determine the hiring steps in order to streamline and expedite the screening and hiring process, and reduce time from application to notification.
Develop (or adapt existing) web-based, self-screening for anonymous use and a  variety of realistic job preview videos, interactive information, and self-assessments to explore self-knowledge and “goodness of fit”.
Develop and implement (or adapt existing) competency-based  selection processes with behavioral anchors tied to clear “meets” or “exceeds” criteria for performance.
Develop and implement a consistent, competency-focused  approach to interviewing , including the training of interviewers, to minimize bias or assumptions that can influence the evaluation and selection of candidates.
